

Eisenhower Is Heading Home Aboard Yankee Cruiser Helena

By DON WHITEHEAD

ABOARD USS HELENA (R) — President-elect Eisenhower rode a battle-scarred heavy cruiser toward storm-whipped seas today with a headful of impressions and a pocketful of suggestions on what to do about the Korean War.

This was the harvest of a three-day tour of the war theater, honoring a campaign promise to the American people to go out and see for himself if there is any path to peace.

Eisenhower told little of what he learned. There are "no panaceas, no trick ways," he said, of ending a war that has drawn in 17 nations on the Allied side and little North Korea and big Communist China on the other—with Soviet Russia supplying the sinews of the Red armies.

The leader eight years ago in Europe of the mightiest army the world has known planned to mull over the information he gathered on his Korean mission.

Meet Dulles At Wake Island

He said he would devote much time during the six-day cruise to Hawaii to studying this first great problem of his upcoming administration.

The Helena, a veteran of duels with Red Korean shore batteries, was cutting through the water at 32 miles an hour toward tiny Wake Island. There is expected to pick up John Foster Dulles, Eisenhower's choice for secretary of state.

An intensive review of the whole Far Eastern problem seemed in the works.

But in the cruiser's path a tropical storm of near-typhoon intensity raged. Rough seas and some seasickness were in prospect.

The big cruiser, however, was expected to ride through the storm without difficulty.

Faces Enormous Task

Eisenhower made it clear, in a news conference on Friday before leaving Korea, that the task confronting the United Nations in the Korean threat to world peace is enormous. He said:

"How difficult it seems to be in a war of this kind, to work out a plan that would bring a positive and definite victory without possibly running grave risk of enlarging the war."

But Eisenhower is confident of ultimate victory. "I am far from a defeatist," he recalled.

Heaviest Red Aerial Assault Is Repelled As Ike Leaves Area

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported today it repelled the "largest enemy night air attack of the Korean War," while President-elect Dwight Eisenhower was leaving Korea.

The Air Force said Allied radar in a three-hour period beginning at 7:10 p. m. last night picked up a total of 11 "hostile aircraft" roaring towards Seoul. General Eisenhower's plane took the air at 8:01 p. m. and the attack continued about two hours after that.

The Air Force spokesman said an earlier statement by Far East Air Force Commander Gen. O. P. Weyland that "not a single enemy aircraft of any kind was able to penetrate during the Chongchon River" during Eisenhower's visit was "based on earlier information."

Were Small Planes

The spokesman said, however, the planes making the attack were small and propeller driven.

"It is highly possible," he said, "that these little planes did not come from Manchuria or deep in North Korea. Planes of that type can be hidden under any hay stack and their home base might have been in Korea near the spot where the attack took place."

"In that case they would not have had to fly through the effective air cover further north."

The enemy planes dropped bombs which "fell close to the installation from which personnel were directing the Allied night interceptors." But the spokesman said security also blocked out any information on whether damage was caused.

Hunts 28 Years; Shoots First Buck

After 28 years of deer hunting, Harry Kuhn of the Motor Transportation Company, Gardners, bagged his first buck, a ten pointer, near Hammonds Rocks along the Laurel Lake road last Tuesday.

"Until December, this year," said Mr. Kuhn, "all I ever got was one lame doe."

The year 1952 has been a lucky sporting year for the Gardners trucker. In February, he visited Florida and landed a 9½ big mouth bass, the largest fish he has ever caught.

Most of the amount was spent for advertising, from newspapers to balloons distributed to youngsters. The account listed $150 as "cash expenditures" and $52 as the cost of oil and gasoline in traveling over the county during the campaign.

FINED IN CARLISLE

Herman Baum Jr., of East Berlin, was given a suspended sentence by Judge Dale F. Shugart, Carlisle, Friday on charges of assault and battery and resisting arrest in connection with an argument in a Carlisle restaurant. The judge said the assault charge likely did not deserve the court's attention since it consisted only of a push but that the resisting an officer charge was more serious. Baum was fined a total of $6.

COUPLE LICENSED

A marriage license was issued at the court house today to Harry Earl Royer and Dorothy Denton Lockett, both of Waynesboro R. 3.

CHEST FUND IS WITHIN $855.70 OF DRIVE'S GOAL

Only $855.70 is needed to bring the Community Chest up to its goal of $21,450.

Chest Drive Chairman Clark Smith said today that donations to date total $20,594.30. He added that no further appeal is being made for funds. "The people of the town know of the need. Contributions have been coming in gradually and we believe that by the time the year is out the money will have been raised. We want to thank all who contributed and all who will contribute. It would be more satisfactory if funds available would permit a personal letter to all who gave, but the expense of sending more than a thousand thank-you notes cannot be warranted. The cooperation of both solicitors and the more than 1,000 who donated is greatly appreciated and we wish to thank each and every one."

Formal Campaign Ends

A donation of $250 from the Gettysburg post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, plus a number of other small contributions, lowered the amount needed from the $1,300 figure where it had remained for about a week.

Further details on the campaign, including a total on the number of contributors and details on the number of women's and other organizations who contributed, are being worked out now, Smith said.

Today marks the end of formal efforts to secure additional funds. However, additional contributions can be turned in at any time at the Community Chest office in the office of Philip R. Bickle, Baltimore St.

The chest fund supports the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Recreation Association, YWCA, Library and Civic Nursing Association.

Mr. And Mrs. J. A. Tawney Are Observing Diamond Wedding Anniversary Today

With their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren with them at a family dinner party, Mr. and Mrs. J. Augustus Tawney, Buford Ave., today mark the observance of their 75th wedding anniversary.

The dinner, at St. James Lutheran Church, will be, by necessity, a little noisy. Mrs. Tawney at 96 has become somewhat deaf, but she can hear if one speaks in a loud voice. Mr. Tawney, approaching 97, is also slightly deaf, but can hear better than his wife.

The couple who on December 6, 1877, climbed into a buggy and rode to Littlestown to be married in the personage by the Rev. E. J. Metzler, are still in relatively good health and enjoy reading, listening to the radio and their good fortune in such a lengthy married life.

They live now in a second floor apartment, above the apartment of a daughter, Mrs. Carrie Pretz.

"Knew A Pretty Girl"

Mrs. Tawney says they feel a bit crowded living in an apartment after enjoying the freedom of full-sized houses as their homes for more than the usual life span of three score and ten years.

But she admits that "it's best to have an apartment. It takes me all day to keep the place clean and cook the meals. We don't get up till late in the morning these days, and I take a nap or two during the day."

The reason they drove over the bumpy cobblestones of the turnpike to Littlestown to be married is forgotten after 75 years. "I guess we were just young and it seemed a good idea," Mr. Tawney says.

Mr. Tawney adds, "They used to kid me about being too shy to go with girls, that's why I picked the girl who lived right across the street from me. But I knew a pretty girl when I saw one, even if she was my neighbor."

Both Are 96

Mr. Tawney, who will be 97 on February 19, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Zephaniah Tawney.

Mrs. Tawney, who will be 97 July 27, is the former Mary Barbehenn, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Barbehenn.

Zephaniah Tawney, a mason, resided originally on Wolf Hill, and moved to Gettysburg after serving in the Civil War. The Tawneys resided on S. Washington St. for many years, across the street from the Barbehenns.

Suspect Two Young Cadets In Robberies

Borough Policeman Raymond E. Menges and Donald Staub left this morning for Woodstock, Va., to question a military academy youth there concerning the burglary of four Gettysburg business places earlier this week.

Burgess William G. Weaver said that police are "very certain" the youth and a companion were the burglars who took funds and articles from Unger Motors, the Lincolnway Service Station, Lincolnway Diner and Reel's Tire Shop and attempted to break into the Atlantic Service Station on Buford Ave., early Wednesday morning.

Both are juveniles, Weaver said, and both were AWOL from the Massanutten Military Academy at the time of the burglary. Both are from New Jersey. The burgess added that one youth was apprehended and returned to the academy, but the other was still at large this morning.

Witnesses saw a New Jersey licensed car near the scene, plus articles found at a tourist camp near here, where two youths with a car with the same license had stayed overnight, led to the discovery of the names of the young men.

NEW ATHLETIC POLICY ADOPTED

The main duty of the committee will be to consult with the president of the college and the head of the department of physical education in the formulation and administration of the athletic policies of Gettysburg College.

The personnel of the committee will be the same as the former staff (Please Turn to Page 3)

PINEY MOUNTAIN INN MAY BECOME HOME OF AGED

Action is expected within the coming week on negotiations of the official board of the Milton Wright Memorial Home at Kauffman's Station to purchase Piney Mountain Inn, east of Caledonia Park, for use as a home for the aged.

Spokesmen for the home board confirmed reports today that the board, by 9-3 vote, is committed to purchase the mountain summer resort structure if it passes State inspection for use as an old folks' home. Determination of this matter is now being worked out.

Although no announcement was made of the agreed purchase price, it was learned from an unofficial but reliable source that the owner, John A. Dice, Chambersburg, merchant, has placed a $100,000 price tag on the building and contents.

UB Church Project

Purchase of the inn for use as an old folks' home was recommended to the Milton Wright official board by the Pennsylvania Conference of the United Brethren Church. The home board, after receiving the recommendation, gave approval to the purchase by a 9-3 vote.

If and when the negotiations are consummated, it is planned to occupy the building "almost immediately," a church spokesman said. Aged guests now at the Milton Wright home would be transferred to Piney Mountain and the Kauffman's Station institution devoted exclusively to the care of children. The inn includes 48 guests rooms in addition to complete dining room facilities, which will permit the UB Church to substantially enlarge the number of elderly guests it now looks after at the Milton Wright home.

For a number of years the Milton Wright official board had been studying plans to erect a new dormitory building adjacent to its present buildings, to be used exclusively by elderly guests.

Here And There News Collected At Random

It won't be long before we'll be putting up a Christmas tree, trimming it and stacking gifts around for the big day come December 25.

If we are careful and follow a few simple suggestions this can be a "fireless" holiday. Here are fourteen precautions to follow:

1. Buy a fresh tree—and choose a small one. It's less dangerous. Beware of trees sold as "fireproof." And don't attempt to flameproof Christmas trees with chemical solutions.
2. Keep your tree in a cold place—an unheated garage is fine—until ready to set it up. And do not set up until you are ready to use it.
3. Before setting up the tree, saw off diagonally at least an inch of trunk, and place base in water-containing holder. Keep water well above diagonal cut at all times.
4. Locate your tree well away from fireplaces, radiators, television sets, powerful electric lights and other sources of heat.
5. Never use candles for decorations. Use only electric lights, and be sure these and the wiring are in good condition. Always check wires for defects and loose sockets before putting them on tree.
6. Since too many light circuits in one outlet may overload the house wiring and blow a fuse, distribute the load among several outlets. A blown fuse means too many lights on one circuit. Reduce the load or (Continued on Page 8)

LIBRARY BOARD DEFERS VOTING ON NEW OFFICERS

Election of officers, scheduled at the December meeting of the board of Directors of the Adams County Free Library Association Friday night, was deferred until the January meeting, because of the small number of directors at the meeting, held in the library building on E. High St.

Of the 15 directors, those present were President C. A. Cluck, Mrs. Kenneth L. Smoke, Mrs. Ira M. Henderson, L. S. Long, Dean Asquith and Mrs. Charles T. Ziegler. The latter two are new members of the board.

The financial statement showed a balance on December 5 in the general fund of $1,795.88 and a balance in the Book Fund of $757.23. Other funds showed balances as follows: Building fund, $985; trust fund, $2,500; bookmobile replacement fund, $1,766. On motion of Mr. Long $500 was transferred from the general fund to the bookmobile replacement fund. The finance committee was authorized to transfer an additional amount if sufficient funds remain after payment of December accounts.

Budget Committee Named

President Cluck appointed the following budget committee, to report at the January meeting: Mr. Long, chairman; Mrs. Henderson, William M. Lott and Mrs. Smoke.

The librarian, Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, reported receiving a letter from Frank Brooks, Taunton, Mass., in which he offered to sell to the library a set of ten volumes of a pictorial history of the Civil War. No price was mentioned. Mrs. Wilson was directed to obtain further information.

CHAPTER I A Bargain With Lubi

Once upon a time there was a kingdom called Fairvania. The King of this country was very sad. The queen wept through the days. All the people were heavy hearted.

The reason for this sorrow was that the Prince of the land was sick. So sick, in fact, that there was no hope of saving his life.

Prince Jonathan was only a baby — hardly half past one. He lay pale and shivering in his crib while the beat of his heart grew weaker and weaker.

"It's a strange sickness," murmured the doctors. "We have never seen its like before. Our medicines are of no use at all."

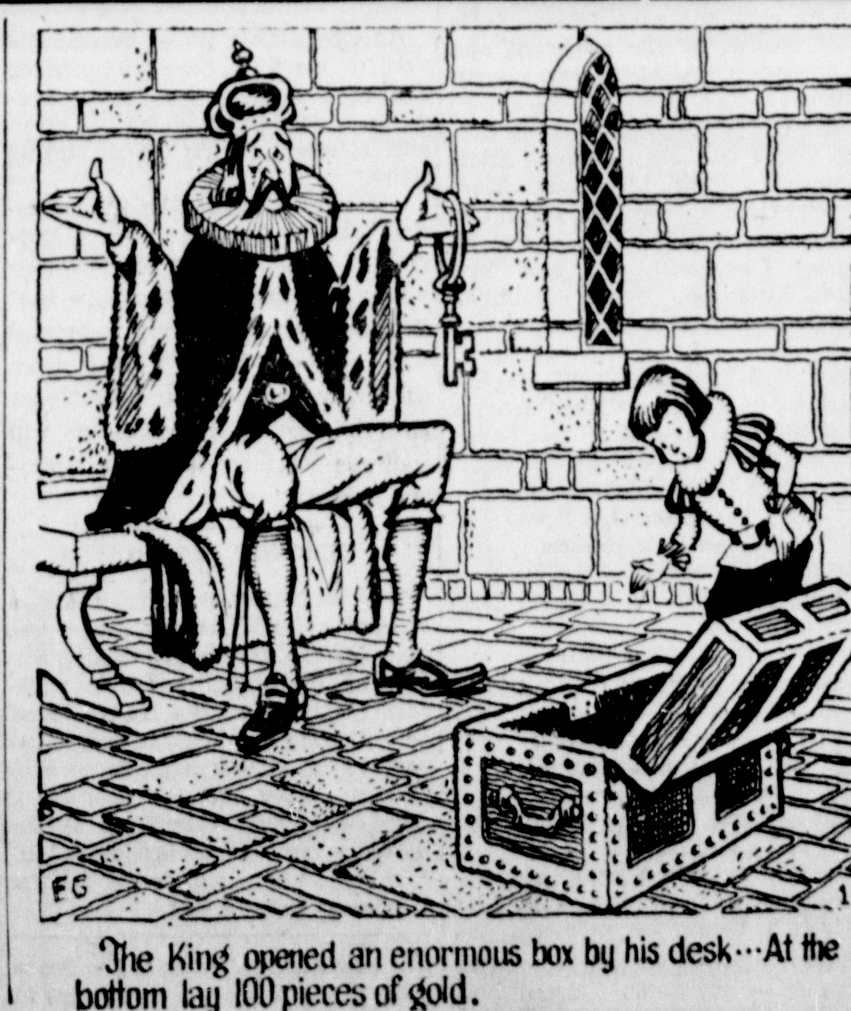

Tears ran down the king's cheeks. "I would give my life to save him!" he groaned.

A strange creature with a pointed head popped past the weeping guards at the door. He scurried up to the king.

"I can save your son," wheezed the creature.

The King gasped. "Who are you?"

"I am Lubi from the land East of the Rising Sun. For 20,000 pieces of gold I will make him (Continued on Page 7)

FARMERS WANT FULL REFUND ON GASOLINE TAX

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Farmers Association intends asking the 1953 general assembly to eliminate a state tax on gasoline used for non-highway purposes.

The association, in a statement released here, said it will seek a refund of the tax on gasoline only for vehicles not used on the highways.

In cases where tractors are used regularly on roads and for commercial purposes, it said, no exemption will be sought.

Principle Is Correct

Present law provides that 50 percent of the tax on non-highway gasoline may be refunded if the farmer applies for it.

The association cited a resolution it passed previously, stating: "We believe that if the principle of refunding any portion of the tax on gasoline for non-highway purposes is correct, then there is no justifiable reason why the full amount of the tax should not be refunded."

Organized in 1951, the Pennsylvania Farmers Association is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

IKE URGED TO END STALEMATE

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today Dwight D. Eisenhower made "no commitments" during his three-day Korean tour.

But Rhee added that he expects the U. S. President to elect will "break the Korean stalemate."

The South Korean chief executive said in an interview that he had told Eisenhower "foreign troops could be relieved from the front line if ROK (Republic of Korea) forces are sufficiently increased, trained and equipped to be able to defend ourselves."

Rhee did not elaborate on what he considers a sufficient increase. There are at least 12 ROK divisions in the field currently.

The white-haired, 77-year-old South Korean leader said he also urged Eisenhower during the general's three-day tour of the war theater "to end a Korean stalemate as soon as possible."

Presumably that meant an all-out drive to the Manchurian border. Rhee called for such an offensive earlier this week.

A reliable South Korean official source said earlier his government had urged Eisenhower to double the strength of ROK forces.

County Girl Scouters Meet On Thursday

The Adams County Girl Scout Leaders' Club held its quarterly meeting on Thursday evening at the Girl Scout Little House. The president, Mrs. Gordon Webster, presided. The session, which was attended by 111 members, opened with group singing led by Mrs. Sentz, Littlestown. A general discussion followed.

Mrs. Hildah Arter, Littlestown, read a communication from Mrs. Browning, regional director, telling the correct use of the Girl Scout salute and sign. Mrs. Arter also told about a camp committee meeting at which time requirements were set up for Senior Girl Scouts who may desire to go on an Appalachian Trail hike. Mrs. Arter then explained the possibilities of giving campships to certain girls to an established camp. The group discussed ideas for future meetings of the club and Mrs. Arter gave an introduction to an arts and crafts workshop. It was decided the first workshop project will be a toy rhythm band. At the conclusion of the business period, Mrs. Arter taught those in attendance the procedure used in making a sit-upon.

Refreshments were then served to the group by the Gettysburg members. The next meeting will be held Thursday, February 5, at 7:30 p.m., at the Little House.

GHS Trounces Hagerstown 57-36 In Opening Season; Reserves Drop Preliminary

A 25-point scoring spree by John "Monte" Carter sparked the Gettysburg High School dribblers to an impressive 57-36 victory over Hagerstown High here Friday evening as the Warriors opened their campaign before a good-sized crowd.

Carter specialized in his pet jump shot and was given fine assistance by the remainder of the team who fed him consistently.

The entire team displayed fine all-around team work and played as a unit which paid dividends as they hopped off into the lead at the start and were never in serious trouble.

Guá Dayhoff was particularly effective in retrieving the ball under the boards while "Skip" Flacel served as playmaker most of the time. Bob Hixon and George Penn, who rounded out the starting outfit, turned in fine all-around performances.

The Warriors were without the services of Big Jim Skinner who will become eligible next week having been ruled out of the opener due to scholastic difficulty.

Should Win Share
There is little doubt that if the Warriors continue to work as a team they will go on to a successful campaign. A repetition of Friday's work will assure the Forney-men of their share of wins.

Considerable foul shooting marked the contest as a result of the new "bonus rule." The Warriors bagged 15 of 32 tries while Hagerstown caged 12 of 21.

Goals by Hixon and Carter got the Forney-men off into the lead before Massey lopped a foul for the Hubs. It took five and one half minutes before Hagerstown tabbed its initial goal on a short shot by Kuhn. At the end of the first period it was 13-8.

The next half goal came after four minutes of the second period and by that time the Warriors had built up a 19-9 margin. Coach Forney's lads led 28-17 at half time.

Midway in the third quarter Hagerstown rallied mildly to bring the count to 34-23 but three goals by Carter sent Gettysburg's margin to 40-26 going into the final period.

Both coaches used their entire squads in the last period which found the Warriors pulling steadily away.

Blow Early Lead
After getting off to a 10-4 lead in the first period, Ross Sachs' Jayvees succumbed to the sharp-shooting Hub reserves in the preliminary 24-27.

Next Friday night the Warriors clash with Westminster on the Owls' floor.

BIG SATURDAY NIGHT ON TAP IN BASKETBALL

NEW YORK (AP)—The first big Saturday night of the new college basketball season is on tap tonight. Many of the country's major quints are scheduled to take the floor.

The heaviest firing will take place in the Midwest, South and Far West although several attractive games are slated in the East. Competition in the Southwest will be at a minimum since nearly all of the Southwest Conference teams do not start until next week.

Illinois, favored to take the Big 10 crown, is one of the few major outfits idle tonight, shifting interest to Manhattan, Kan., where Kansas State, expected to replace Kansas as the Big Seven champions, opens its season against Drake.

Other Top Tilt
The Indiana at Notre Dame fray shapes up as one of the best. Other games in the Midwest include: Purdue-Butler, Pitt-Michigan, St. Louis-Ohio State, Iowa-Oklahoma, Marquette-Michigan State, Western Michigan-Northwestern, Nebraska-South Dakota and Iowa State-South Dakota State.

Four conference games are on tap in the Southern Conference, North Carolina State-Davidson, West Virginia-Washington and Lee, Duke-Wake Forest and North Carolina-Richmond. In addition Furman plays Georgia Tech, Georgia meets Clemson and South Carolina takes on Newberry.

Three doubleheaders feature play in the first twin bill of the season at Madison Square Garden finds Iowa meeting Siena and NYU engaging Boston College. At Buffalo, N. Y., one of the East's better teams will play. Syracuse battles Canisius and LaSalle takes on Niagara. At the Palestra, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania meets Maryland and Villanova plays a service team, Indianapolis Gap.

Florida, which has a date with Tulsa in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl New Year's Day, is favored by a touchdown, despite Kentucky's brilliance since midseason.

Rain Washes Out Tennis Matches

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—For the second straight day, rain today washed out play in the Victorian Tennis championships.

Vic Seixas, of Philadelphia, playing captain for the U. S. Davis Cup team, was to have met Australia's ace, Frank Sedgman, for the men's singles title.

The all-America final for the women's crown pitting Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., against Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif., also was washed out.

Officials announced that both matches would be played Monday.

FRED SAIGH HAS WON 1ST ROUND IN TV BATTLE

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Fightin' Fred Saigh, baseball's battling bantam, finally has broken through in his long bitter fight for a share of television receipts from other ball parks.

The gritty president of the St. Louis Cardinals, unwavering in his demand that the visiting club be cut into all TV profits, got a "foot in the door" yesterday when he reached an agreement with the Chicago Cubs whereby St. Louis will share in the television money for each game they play at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Cubs also came to a reciprocal agreement with the Cincinnati Reds in which the Reds and Cubs will receive a visitor's share of the receipts in their respective parks. No other reciprocal agreements were concluded but President Gabe Paul of the Reds was confident he will reach an agreement with all clubs "because I'm not being militant."

Saigh was not hopeful of such an agreement with the other clubs, especially with the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

New Waiver Rule
The television problem did not occupy the entire National League meeting. The bonus and high school rule was passed and a night game schedule permitting the home club five nocturnal games without the visiting club's permission was voted on. A new waiver rule forbidding the sale of a player to another club or to another league above the waiver price after June 15 also was passed. The original amendment, submitted by the Executive Council, set the date at July 15.

The American set an unlimited number of night games without permission from the visiting team. It also voted down a proposal by Hank Greenberg of Cleveland to create a suspended game situation because of rain, curfew, etc. It discussed the bonus rule and high school rule but issued no statement. The two leagues were to convene again today and wind up the convention with a joint session under Commissioner Ford Frick tomorrow.

Springers Bow To Highspire
York Springs High is still seeking its first basketball victory after suffering its fourth straight reverse at Highspire Friday evening by a 63-45 count.

With Dintiman showing the way via 23 points, Highspire took a 17-8 lead in the first period and was never in trouble thereafter.

Danny Williams landed 17 points to lead the Springers' attack.

The York Springs girls dropped their third in a row in the preliminary 45-24. Shank netted 25 points for the winners while Yohn connected for 11 for the losers.

Next Friday the York Springs boys play at Newport.

BRATTON LOSES TO TIGER JONES IN BIG UPSET

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost a year ago Ralph (Tiger) Jones worked as a sparring partner for Johnny Bratton. He learned his lessons well. Today he held an upset victory over the former NBA welterweight king and was in line for some good pay days.

Bratton couldn't hold the Tiger last night. The 4 to 1 and more underdog poured the pace on the clouting Chicagoan and romped off with an impressive, unanimous ten round decision in a blistering tussle in Madison Square Garden.

It was a bonanza for Jones and a disaster for Bratton. Matchmaker Billy Brown of the International Boxing Club wants the aggressive, 24-year-old Yonkers, N. Y., Negro bled in action soon and also for a return bout with Bratton in January.

Ruined Chance At Olson
The defeat snapped Bratton's four-fight win streak and ruined a possible rich bout with Carl (Bobo) Olson, the top-ranking middleweight contender from Hawaii.

That match had been in the works. Sturdy, muscular and well conditioned at 154 pounds Jones fought an almost perfect fight against the 168½ pound Johnny. He moved in close, with his left arm high, so Bratton wouldn't have any room to get off his right hand bombs. He fought out of a crouch that had Johnny missing all night and he raked the Chicago speed merchant to the body and head with left hooks and short rights.

Not only did he belt Bratton almost at will but he took Bratton's Sunday punches without flinching and traded any time the favorite so desired. And Bratton chose to fight and slug, too. So it was a thriller all the way that had the small crowd of 3,614 (gross take $10,227) yelling and cheering right through. More fans enjoyed the scrap via national television. There were no knockdowns.

Mounts Take 3rd Straight
A thrilling fourth period rally gave the Mt. St. Mary's College basketballers a 68-65 Mason-Dixon Conference decision over Hampden-Sydney Friday night on the losers' floor.

The victory marked the third straight for the fast moving Mountaineers who lost their opening tussle. Tonight the Mounts play at Virginia Medical College.

After falling behind 50-44 at the close of the third quarter, Bill Clarke's youngsters began to click and finally Vince Guilbini tallied a goal which sent the Mounts ahead after three minutes of the last period. Mt. St. Mary's hiked its margin to 11 points before Hampden-Sydney spurred in the late minutes.

INTERESTS

I believe one of the greatest ideas for the prolongation of a useful and happy life experience is to have a variety of interests. We often hear the term, as applied to a man that he is "many-sided." It could just as well be applied to the mind of a man. The many-sided mind takes in much more than its chosen profession, or daily scheduled duties.

A person with many interests is constantly inspired. He is alive. He attracts friends, for they are forever learning something new about him. He is alive with enthusiasm. His personality is colorful. People search him out because he gives out a stimulating spirit. His interests blot out any dullness of life.

Collectors are usually happy folks. It doesn't matter much as to what they collect. The interest is there, and it is educational to some extent. It may be books, art, canes, or buttons. There is always a search that remains alive. Millions collect stamps. The late President Roosevelt's hobby of collecting stamps became known all over the world, and this interest gave to him needed strength and happiness during grave times.

People's interest in sports is one of the healthiest of interests. This is evidenced by the great crowds that fill big stadiums. Sports instill in youth a care for their bodies and a love for good sportsmanship. But a love of sports is not confined to youth. All ages are included. Physical fitness is stimulated on the part of everyone interested. Our thousands of sand-lot areas are an investment no matter where reserved.

One's interest in life itself is always augmented by many a hobby or interest that contributes to one's special bent or happiness. These interests relax the mind and lessen tension on the nervous system. Fishermen understand this. People with many interests live, not only longest, but happiest. People with interests are never bored!

CHRISTMAS WISH

What I'd like to have for Christmas is to tell you in a minute: The family all around me and the home with laughter in it. Never mind the usual trinkets, wrapped in tissue, tied with ribbon.

I want chuckles from the eldest to the baby with her bib on.

Let me settle in my corner when the Christmas tree is lighted; I'll enjoy their shouts of wonder as the youngsters grow excited.

Let me see their bright eyes shining and their cheeks with health the pink of.

As my gift for Christmas morning that's the finest I can think of.

What I really want for Christmas is a gift that's precious very.

It's the family all around me and a Christmas Day that's merry.

But the richest man now living hasn't got enough to buy it.

Only God above can grant it and His blessings must supply it.

Eisenhower Flies 10,836 Miles To Get First-Hand Data On Stalemated War

(Editors: The following story—released from censorship after Dwight D. Eisenhower's departure from Korea—was written by Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead who accompanied the general on his tour. It was a return to familiar scenes for Whitehead, who covered Korea as a war correspondent two years ago.)

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH EISENHOWER IN KOREA

REAR (AP) — U. S. President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower is safely out of Korea and en route home tonight after three action-packed days of seeking a way to peace in this frozen land of war and misery.

Whether this unprecedented mission will prove to be a failure or a success—only time can tell.

The general told a news conference:

"We came over here to learn. We have no panaceas, no trick ways of settling any problem."

But he strongly indicated the solution to the Korean conflict does not lie in spreading the war to attack Red China. He said:

Opposes Enlarging War

"How difficult it seems to be in a war of this kind to work out a plan that would bring a positive and definite victory without possibly running a grave risk of enlarging the war. There are many limitations on a war of this kind, but this much is certain . . . much can be done, in my opinion, to improve our position—much will be done."

Eisenhower said he and his staff would study "everything we have learned here" so his administration will be "better able to pursue its policy of supporting freedom in the world."

Eisenhower kept to himself any strategy he might be forming. But he hinted one of the first moves would be a speedup in training South Koreans to take over most of the combat burden now falling on the Americans.

Look To South Koreans

American officers working with the South Koreans feel much can be done—but no one should expect too much too soon despite the startling progress made in two years in building the Republic of Korea (ROK) forces into effective fighting units.

Eisenhower's visit to Korea had a by-product of skyrocketing the spirit of American troops and giving them hope that if there is a road to peace, it will be found.

Soldier after soldier will tell you they believe that somehow and somewhere the general will find a way out of this war. And every man questioned by this reporter said Eisenhower did the right thing in coming to Korea. They weren't bothering about any political implications.

An Irishman in the British First Commonwealth Division—Sgt. Joseph Killiea of County Roscommon—felt like a great many American soldiers: "If anybody can end it, Gen. Eisenhower can. He's the man to do it, sir."

Well-Kept Secret

Eisenhower left New York secretly under cover of the darkness before dawn last Saturday. An elaborate scheme had been hatched to make it appear, through appointments and announcements, that he still was at his home on Morning Heights over the week end and busy at his Commodore Hotel headquarters early this week.

He drove to Mitchell Field Air Base on Long Island and boarded a military Constellation plane for the 10,836 mile flight to Korea. He was joined, among others, by Charles E. Wilson of Detroit who will be the new secretary of defense; Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Herbert Brownell of New York, who will have the Cabinet post of attorney general.

Airport Well Guarded

Eisenhower arrived in Korea at 7:57 p. m. (5:57 a. m. EST) Tuesday and stepped onto an airport wharped by the coldest winds of the winter season and guarded by military police and U. S. secret service agents.

The security blackout on news of his journey across the Pacific and his stay in this war-torn land was not lifted until his plane was one hour in flight tonight and well beyond danger of attack.

The general's visits to combat units near the front did not take him into the front lines. The military and the secret service were careful to see that he did not go beyond division headquarters—usually three or four miles from the actual battleline—for security reasons. The greatest risks appeared to be in the mountain hopping in small planes.

These facts soon became apparent to those who accompanied Eisenhower:

Many Favor Offensive

1. There is strong sentiment among some U. S. military men here and among the South Koreans for an all-out offensive to smash the military power of Red China and North Korea. They argue privately this is the best and surest way to force peace in the Far East.

2. Some military men want to use Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa in the fighting, although this is opposed by the Koreans who say such a move would shift China's civil war to Korean soil.

3. The U. S. Eighth Army is strong and confident it can stop any Chinese offensive even though the enemy has close to one million troops facing the U. N. forces. But sentiment for an all-out U. N. drive is tempered by the caution of some who think the United States isn't yet strong enough militarily to expand the war.

No Faith In Peace Talks

4. There appears to be little faith in this part of the world that the Panmunjom peace talks will produce an armistice.

5. Some fighting men believe it is better to go all-out against the Chinese now and take temporarily heavy losses to gain victory rather than continue the present stalemate with its growing toll of dead and wounded. Others—and they are mostly the infantrymen who would have to carry the load of battle—don't agree so readily.

6. The Chinese have well-equipped and well-supplied armies dug into heavily fortified mountain positions—and reports would indicate no break in their morale despite terrific battle losses.

7. On the other side, the South Korean army has shown astonishing improvement in leadership, efficiency and fighting skill since that day two years ago when the Chinese entered the war and routed the South Koreans. Where American fighting men once shrugged their shoulders helplessly over the fighting quality of the ROKs, they now praise them lavishly.

To Bolster South Koreans

Eisenhower gave every indication that as President he would see to it that the South Korean army is made stronger and stronger. While talking yesterday to Lt. mven. Chung Il Kwon, deputy commander of the U. S. Ninth Corps, the general congratulated him on the ROK army and then said:

"As far as I'm concerned, we'll get it a lot bigger and better."

Earlier, Chung had told a reporter he would like to see a United Nations drive to the Yalu "with the ROK army leading the way." And ROK Maj. Gen. Bak Lim Hung said: "We would like to attack and push on north if the higher headquarters would permit."

But these same sentiments were voiced by some American officers and enlisted men, too, and without doubt Eisenhower is aware of this feeling in the army which he soon will head as commander in chief.

Lieutenant Is Secretary

On every trip outside Eighth Army Headquarters, Eisenhower was accompanied by those who had flown from New York in his party. They were: Wilson, Bradley, Brownell, Air Force Maj. Gen. Roger Ramey, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons (ret.), who will be Eisenhower's White House assistant; Secret Service Agent James Rowley in charge of the White House detail, and Lt. John Davies, who acted as secretary to Eisenhower.

At Iwo Jima, Adm. Arthur Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific, joined the group.

Others on the trip included Col. Paul T. Carroll, Woonsocket, R.I., acting as an aide to Eisenhower; the general's press secretary, James C. Hagerty; Secret Service Agent Richard Flohr; Don Whitehead, Associated Press; Merriman Smith, United Press; Bob Considine, International News Service; Frank Jurkowski, pool photographer; David Oliver, pool photographer for newsreel-television, and Everett Holmes of Mutual Broadcasting System, representing the combined radio network.

Fight Security Program

The security surrounding Eisenhower's arrival was so tight that soldiers and most officers in combat units didn't know the general was in Korea until he arrived at their headquarters.

All across the Pacific the pattern of surface and air travel was such that the general's plane was never more than 100 miles from a ship or plane.

The planes were equipped as sleepers and work planes, the cabin being divided roughly into four compartments. The rear compartment contained washroom and toilet.

The next was a large lounge with two divans which could be made into beds; two easy chairs and a work desk. The third compartment was a sleeper room with pullman-like seats which could be made into eight bunks.

The crew quarters, kitchen, and pilot cabin were forward.

Studied War Reports

Eisenhower's office and sleeping quarters were in the lounge where he spent most of the time studying reports from the Korean war theater. In fact, Gen. Bradley said they played only four or five rubbers of bridge—one of Eisenhower's favorite pastimes—the entire flight to Iwo Jima.

The group spent the night in Air Force billets there for the first break in the flight.

Bradley confessed: "I lost 80 cents playing bridge." He didn't say whether Eisenhower was the winner.

Eisenhower spent his first morning in Seoul getting a briefing from Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far Eastern commander; Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commanding the Eighth Army, and other officers. Then he visited two Air Force fighter units, flew over saw-toothed, snow-covered mountains to visit the First Marine Division, and

Troops Wait 7 Hours

A sharp wind from the north sent the mercury skidding to near zero. Some cases of frostbitten feet were reported among troops who had stood for hours waiting for the general's arrival. One unit—the Canadians—had waited in the cold for seven hours.

Eisenhower obviously was not aware the troops had been ordered to assemble so long before his arrival.

Yesterday the general paid visits to the British First Commonwealth Division, two South Korean units, a hospital, and the U. S. Second and Third Divisions.

Government and city officials in Seoul had drummed up a big welcome celebration for Eisenhower Thursday and thousands of men, women and children turned out apparently expecting a glimpse of the general. But he did not appear.

Hagerty later told reporters the schedule would not permit the general to break away for a personal appearance. He denied that security or political considerations were involved.

REUTHER PLANS FIGHT FOR LABOR AS HEAD OF CIO

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The CIO's new president, Walter P. Reuther, today charted a fighting program to keep the labor organization an active factor in America's industrial life.

Reuther, in a speech accepting the post as successor to the late Philip Murray, said he would strive for the biggest possible gains for workers already organized, and campaign vigorously to organize workers who are now non-union.

Election of the dynamic, 45-year-old Reuther, head of the big CIO auto workers union came late on Thursday to a climax to the CIO's annual convention.

Haywood Again V. P.

It capped a bitterly-contested fight pitting Reuther against a union old-timer and former coal miner, Allan S. Haywood. Haywood, 64, was promptly re-elected as the CIO's executive vice-president after losing the showdown to Reuther.

The split in CIO ranks over the election apparently was quickly healed, at least on the surface. Both the Reuther and Haywood forces pledged continued allegiance to the CIO.

Reuther said, "I say to the men who sit on their plush cushions of the Union their plush cushions of the Union League Clubs of America, I say this for you who are convention delegates and I say it for the millions of CIO members back home, that the fat men on the plush cushions are wrong."

Not Divided

"We are not going to go out of here divided. We are going to go out of here united to carry on this struggle until we win."

A man with a meteoric career in the labor movement, Reuther has come up through the tough days of organizing the auto industry. A one-time Socialist, he has supported numerous social change ideas.

The ballot result was announced at 3:07 p. m. for Reuther, and 2:13:10 for Haywood, giving Reuther a margin of about 8 per cent of the CIO's claimed membership. The votes were cast by some 600 delegates, with certain numbers of ballots allocated to various unions in the CIO.

FARMERS ASK FOR VET SCHOOL AT PENN STATE

HARRISBURG (P)—The State Council of Farm Organizations pressed its campaign today for establishment of a veterinary school at Pennsylvania State College with a statement that inaction would be "a fatal mistake."

The council, representing more than 30 state-wide organizations, said establishment of such a school would be a "major step of service to the entire citizenry of the commonwealth and will require a substantial commitment of public funds."

"To install a complete veterinary college would cost between six and seven million dollars," said J. Collins McSparran, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

Opponents of the council proposal say existing veterinary school facilities at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia could be expanded to double the number of qualified graduates for less than a million dollars.

Need More Vets
McSparran emphasized that establishment of a veterinary school at State College would not mean the end of the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary College, now subsidized by state funds.

"If we open a new school at the expense of present facilities we will be defeating our purpose, which is to produce more veterinarians for the state."

The proposed school would graduate about 75 doctors of veterinary medicine annually. The University of Pennsylvania graduates between 50 and 70 students a year.

The council statement listed needs for: (1) practicing veterinarians in rural areas; (2) veterinarians in state service, such as meat inspection and disease control; and (3) research specialists.

Support A Program
McSparran said, "One of the main purposes of establishing a school at State College is to give support to agricultural programs, such as animal husbandry, which are closely connected with animal disease study."

"Students should be given every opportunity of studying animal diseases and their causes at first hand."

"We feel that economy is the spending of money wisely," McSparran said. "Any epidemic such as foot and mouth disease would cause many millions more than the sum we are asking for the establishment of a new veterinary college."

Teachers Seeking Another Increase

HARRISBURG (P)—Pennsylvania's school teachers staked out a new claim today for another $200 cost-of-living salary increase.

The Legislative Committee of the Pennsylvania State Education Association called upon the 1953 legislature to provide the salary boost at an estimated cost of 12½ million dollars a biennium.

In a report to be presented to the PSEA convention here Dec. 29-30-31, the committee said:

"The estimated average salary in Pennsylvania this year is $3,504. Thousands of teachers with many years of service in the commonwealth are this year receiving $3,100 which is below an acceptable income standard in the present economy."

TOO MANY SHEEP FOR FARM SHOW

HARRISBURG (P)—A record 561 head of sheep entered in the 1953 Pennsylvania State Farm show has the show management wondering today just where to quarter them.

The problem has reached such proportions that an official of the Pennsylvania State Sheep and Wool Growers Association is to fly here tomorrow to confer with the State Farm Show Commission.

He is Raymond Henderson, of Hickory, Washington County, member of the association's Farm Show committee. Also to confer with the commission is Merle P. Tait, another association committee member from Steelersville, Lehigh County.

The huge show, sponsored by the State Agriculture Department, will run from Jan. 12-16. It was attended last year by a record throng of 685,000 persons.

The record number of sheep is part of a grand total of 2,063 livestock to be displayed at the Farm Show building here—the greatest total ever assembled at the annual event. Some 1,807 animals were exhibited in the 1952 show, the former record.

Killed with their 37-year-old mother were John, 10, Sedora, 9, and Cirica, 7.

Fighter Bombers Pound Chinese Reds

SEOUL (P)—Allied fighter-bombers plastered Chinese Reds on the Central Front for the third straight day Friday.

Other U. N. warplanes ranged deep into North Korea and attacked Communist supply and troop targets.

Action was virtually nil along the frozen battle front. The Reds threw no more than 40 men into their scattered jabs at the Allied lines.

A U. N. raiding party shot up a Chinese outpost on the Western front Thursday. The raiders with-

MILLIONS WERE SPENT IN PENNA. FOR CAMPAIGNS

HARRISBURG (P)—Election expenses in Pennsylvania for the 1952 campaign totalled several million dollars, it appeared today on the basis of reports filed with the State Election Bureau.

No exact sum could be determined because of the complex nature of the reports, many of which had duplicating figures showing transfers of funds among various campaign organizations. However, unofficial estimates were that the complete total might be somewhere in the vicinity of three to five million dollars.

Republicans outspent Democrats in the campaign, on the basis of sworn statements on file with the Election Bureau. Thursday was the deadline for such accounts listing money paid out and received for political activities prior to and during the Nov. 4 balloting.

Many Reports, No Total
The Republican Finance Committee paid out $1,507,470. The Republican State Committee, whose operations are financed in part by the Finance Committee, filed a list of $354,022 in expenditures.

The Democratic State Committee reported it spent $118,025. There was no expense account filed by a Democratic organization comparable to the GOP Finance Committee.

Scores of county committee reports were filed in behalf of both parties. But the figures failed to provide a clue to a true total of statewide expenditures since they gave and received money to statewide parent organizations.

The money spent by the Republican and Democratic National Committees in Pennsylvania on campaign trains, nation-wide television and radio broadcasts also does not appear in the Election Bureau reports. Neither does the money spent by congressional candidates.

The State Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon filed $43,285 in expenses compared to $22,505 spent by the Pennsylvania fund for Stevenson-Sparkman.

Averell Harriman, mutual security administrator, lent $25,000 to the Stevenson fund, of which $20,000 was repaid.

Largest donation to the Democratic State Committee was $5,000 from the CIO-Political Action Committee. Other big contributors were Curtis I. Kossman, $2,500; and Albert Greenfield, $1,500.

NEW YORK (P)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower tuned in on a news broadcast Friday morning and heard that her President-elect husband had completed his historic visit to the Korean battlefield.

"I'm glad that everything's all right and he's coming home," a secretary quoted her as saying.

Mrs. Eisenhower was reported relaxing in front of a television set in hope that pictures of the general's trip might be flashed on the screen.

The official total from the state's 67 counties gave Eisenhower 2,415,789 votes compared to 2,146,269 for Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate.

The official vote for other state wide candidates was:
U. S. Senator—Edward Martin, Republican, 2,331,034; Guy K. Bard, Democrat, 2,168,546.

Justice of the State Supreme Court—John C. Arnold, Republican, 2,319,949; Harry M. Montgomery, Democrat, 2,175,949.

Has Peaceful Use For H-bomb Material

WASHINGTON (P)—An atomic scientist came up today with the first public explanation on how hydrogen bomb materials might be tamed for peaceful uses, such as power.

Electricity discharged through a thin wire might set off a "slowed down" reaction which could be controlled for various purposes, Dr. George Gamow told a reporter.

He said there are other "theoretically possible" techniques that might be even better, but he declined to amplify.

Your tires may roll easier on cool air but the car itself still rolls easiest on cold cash.

Chains Still Tops
We are right back into the skidding season of the year and the smart driver will try to remind himself that chains still are the outstanding protection against a winter accident in bad weather. Tests of the National Safety Council showed that where the treads are of natural rubber a stop on glare ice at only 20 miles per hour calls for a distance of 209 feet. If these same tires are winterized by special materials in the treads the distance is cut to 188 feet. It is unfortunate that mud - snow treads are only slightly better than regular treads with a distance figure of 201 feet because they have so many advantages in snow. However with chains you can get a stop in 77 feet.

A point to remember is that with synthetic treads there may be increased skidding or wheel spinning up to 5 per cent as compared with treads of natural rubber. A factor this year is the increased use of treads with those transverse cuts which provide innumerable gripping fingers. These are expected to make a marked improvement in control on glare ice and packed snow.

All New In Squeaks
Sometimes it takes a long time to discover why our cars act strangely. I'm thinking of the situation with some of the rear leaf springs which are fitted with interliners. Squeaking became quite a problem with several of these cars so equipped, and you'd never guess that the trouble was due to a little stray paint between the leaves and the liners. This simply acts to prevent lubricant from the interliner from doing its work. Owners try to oil the springs and the dirt which this attracts only makes matters worse.

Remedy is to remove the paint from the spring leaves and to install new liners without lubricating them.

Using Our Senses
Every experienced mechanic uses the equipment he was born with to make certain observations of car behavior. This is clearly demonstrated in the case of adjusting an engine for smooth idling. His eyes are very helpful here, for if there is roughness the modern engine will rock too much.

In its flexible mountings. He will also watch the fan to make sure it is rotating steadily. To feel the engine he has only to lean against one of the front fenders. Some of the unevenness can be heard, especially if he listens at the exhaust pipe. Many listen to the oil filler pipe.

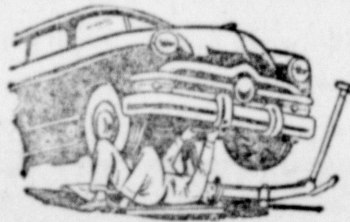

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"This is the time of year when it always pays to keep the gas tank well filled at all times. There's far less condensation in the tank when the inside surface is covered with fuel, and that means less chance of water getting into the gas line and carburetor. A full tank also has a beneficial effect on rear end traction which is too necessary in slippery weather."

"I like to have a full tank of gas because of the possibility of a bad traffic tie-up which would use up fuel at a rapid pace. Gas mileage is always down in winter anyway, and 'round town driving is likely to use up fuel much faster than you suspect. Remember, too, that your heat on a cold day is dependent on engine operation. It all adds up to need for a closer check on the gas gauge."

The Spice Of Motoring
Next time anyone tells you that cars are more or less standardized today just counter with the statement that on current American makes there are no less than ten different types of steering linkage. Just for the record these include the center arm, fore-aft and cross, parallelogram, long-short arm, cross, two other forms of parallelogram and three types of haltenberger linkage.

One reason so many motorists who foolishly try to adjust tappets make a mess of things these days is because they are using an old and battered feeler gauge which throws them off base. If the thin strike of a flat gauge have been pounded by being held between the tappet and push rod while the engine is operating there's a good chance that it will be anything but accurate. Certainly no fine tappet adjustments will be possible with such equipment.

An Orchid To Milady
Believe it or not, I have just been talking with a woman who understands that if there are explosions in the exhaust system when the car goes down hill with the throttle closed it is due to unburned gas vapor getting into the muffler. In fact, she told me this was the trouble with her car. Her only concern was knowing just what was causing the excess of unburned gas under such operating conditions. It isn't easy for an experienced mechanic to put his finger on the cause right off the reel. He usually works at this little problem, by trial and error, although using the simple and effective method of starting with the simplest things first. That is why he usually checks the spark plugs, for if they miss a beat they will let unburned gas pass the exhaust valve of the affected cylinder. He will also check for sticky valves, a too lean or too rich mixture and incorrect timing.

Points Up A Rule
Not being infallible I was unable to explain to one of my good readers just why it was that he was unable to shift out of reverse. His car is equipped with one of the automatic drives, but there was nothing about the design of the system to cause this trouble. The owner now has come up with the discovery that if he shifts quickly he has no trouble whatever. He wishes to pass this along to other readers who may be similarly troubled.

Whether or not this really is the remedy I'm not ready to say, but I do want to mention this because it illustrates the interesting point that often we can solve troubles in the control system of our cars by changing the rate of speed at which we operate them.

Gives Chrome A Lift
After a period of time the chrome protectives which are so widely used to preserve the car's trim may become a bit cloudy. When this happens the old protective usually can be removed with ammonia. But let it soak on the trim for about five minutes. After that wash the ammonia off with water, and be careful not to get ammonia on the painted surfaces. What to do after that will depend on what type of protective has been used and on how well the car is chromed. If the chrome is fairly heavy polish it with a mild chrome polish and then wax or treat with a special protective. Sometimes the chrome is so thin the polishing should be merely a cleaning with white gasoline.

Q. What would cause the engine to be difficult to re-start when the car is standing on an upgrade?
H. F. S.

A. This may be due to disturbance of the level of fuel in the carburetor. Faced with this situation, crank with the throttle wide open. Don't pump on the accelerator. Don't choke. If the float chamber is empty, cranking will refill it. If the engine is overloaded the wide open throttle will help draw in more air.

Q. Does a car have one, two or three universal joints? Wm. K. A.
This depends on the car. Cars which "drive" through the springs usually have two sets of joints while those of the torque tube type have one set. Many commercial cars have three sets of joints.

Q. What would cause low charging when the engine is first started? After the engine warms up the ammeter goes over to the charge side normally. The battery seems to be hearty enough W. W. R.

A. I suspect that the generator belt is slipping when the engine is cold.

Q. The engine of my car seems to be working too hard. I would take this as a sign of slipping clutch except that this car has an automatic transmission. J. K. N.

A. The automatic drive unit may need more oil.
Q. I notice that when I switch off the engine of my car there is a peculiar gasping sound under the hood. The other day I raised the hood before switching off the ignition and the noise I heard was very much like a person giving out with a deep sign. I'm sure engines are not supposed to make any such noise when stopping. H. H. G.

A. This indicates excessive wear on the piston rings or cylinders or both. The engine "rocks" when it stops, instead of stopping dead as it should do if compression is normally high and bearings are snug.

Q. If a car isn't driven too fast and there are no abrupt stops and starts what would cause the rear tires to wear abnormally. The wheels do not wobble. The car isn't overloaded. T. J., Jr.

A. In a case of this sort I would suspect that the rear wheels do not track the front ones. That is, the rear wheels are a little out of line because the frame of the car is swayed or the rear axle housing is bent.

Q. I have been told that it isn't necessary to clean out the oil line to the overhead rocker arms of the engine because there is a small filter in the line near the valve compartment cover. What do you suggest? S. McN.

A. There is no such filter on

NEW JOB-RATED DODGE TRUCKS MUCH IMPROVED

McCaullin Auto Sales, local Dodge dealer, today announced that the new B-4 Series of Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks which are now on display have increased power, three entirely new engines, improved brakes, and a self-shifting transmission for some light models. These are just a few of 50 new features and improvements.

The new trucks meet approximately 98 per cent of all hauling needs with seven engines ranging from 100 gross horsepower in the 1/2-ton models to 171 gross horsepower in the 4-ton models, gross vehicle weights ranging from 4,250 to 40,000 pounds, and gross combination weight ranging up to 60,000 pounds.
The new truck-o-matic transmission with glycol fluid drive available for 1/2 and 3/4-ton models brings this new driving ease to the truck field for the first time. Dodge is the first truck manufacturer to offer such a transmission with four speeds forward, plus one reverse speed, and which requires no gear shifting in normal driving.

Higher Road Speeds
Growing demand for higher road speeds and over-all performance with maximum loads resulted in Dodge introducing three entirely new engines and also increasing power output on 1/2, 3/4, 1 1/2, 2, 2 1/2, and 4-ton trucks.

Largest of the new engines is that which powers the 4-ton models. It has a displacement of 413 cubic inches, compression ratio of 6.5 to 1, and develops 171 gross horsepower at 3200 r.p.m. It is equipped with twin carburetors, manifolds and exhaust systems. Largest engine in the preceding B-3 Series developed 154 gross horsepower at 3000 r.p.m. Further increases in trouble-free engine life are assured by numerous (Continued on Page 8)

"Pay me in full before 10 years are gone," said Lubi. "Or give me your kingdom and all your people."

"Agreed!" whispered the King, hardly hearing the stranger's words. Prince Jonathan gasped for breath and the King begged Lubi, "Save him if you can."

WSB MEMBERS TO DECIDE ON RESIGNATIONS

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board were expected to decide today whether to quit their jobs as their colleagues on the big Chicago regional WSB did yesterday.

The protest resignations of the seven industry members of the Chicago WSB said President Truman's coal wage decision "irrevocably ruined any hope for effective control of inflation" by direct wage ceilings.

Truman overruled the WSB two days ago and authorized a $1.90-a-day wage increase for John L.

Lewis' coal miners. The WSB had said $1.50 a day was all the pay boost they could get without endangering anti-inflation controls.

No Mass Walkout

Refusal to grant the full amount, Truman said, would precipitate a nation-wide coal strike and confront President-elect Eisenhower with a "national emergency" when he takes office Jan. 20.

The seven industry members of the national board were hardly considered likely to walk out in a body today, although no informed official would make a flat prediction.

It was thought probable, however, that one or more industry members might quit on their own. It was reported that James Delmar, industry member from Houston, was considering doing this.

Suspend Action

The WSB industry members—others represent unions and the public—have announced they will not participate in any board actions until they decide what they are going to do.

Archibald Cox quit as WSB chairman Thursday in protest against President Truman's order. Vice Chairman Charles C. Killingsworth became chairman and Cox's place as a public member was filled yesterday by Truman with the appointment of Meyer S. Ryder of Detroit.

The industry members began assembling in Washington yesterday for a secret meeting to decide on a course of action. There was no announcement of any decision last night.

Phil McAtee, goaltender for the Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League, served with the 4th Armored Division of the Canadian Army as a captain. He was wounded in action.

TENSION HIGH AS U.N. DEBATES TUNISIA ISSUE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. resumes its French-boycotted debate on Tunisia today in an atmosphere of explosive tension following the slaying of Tunisian independence leader Farhat Hached.

French spokesman said their delegation would not heed the pleas of some fellow-diplomats to return during the discussion of an Arab-Asian bloc resolution supporting Tunisian demands for talks aimed at freeing the North African protectorate from French colonial rule.

The French announced their boycott as the debate opened yesterday. They claim the Tunisian question is France's own internal business and no concern of the U. N.

Murder Charges Air

Two of the Arab-Asian bloc nations that sponsored the resolution—Egypt and Indonesia—join Cuba on the list of speakers who will address the 60-nation Political Committee today.

The atmosphere in the U. N. halls became heavily charged by yesterday's news of the murder of Hached, Tunisian union leader whose body was found machine-gunned and battered on a highway south of Tunis.

Tunisian nationalist leader Salah Ben Youssef, who is attending the debate here, charged that Hached was assassinated by French "Red Hand Society" terrorists, who he said are supported by all French political parties in Tunisia except the Socialists. He also charged the group is supported by the French police and security forces in Tunisia.

Want To Reopen Talks

A French spokesman denied that the "red hand movement—if it exists" was linked to French police or security forces. He described the murder as "foul, cowardly, beastly and disgusting" and declared that everything would be done to bring the murderer to justice.

A spokesman for Morocco—another French North African protectorate whose cause comes up next in the committee—charged that "colonial rulers" had responded to the Arab-Asian appeals for Tunisian selfrule with "the death blow to Farhat Hached."

France has announced she also will boycott the debate on a similar Arab-Asian resolution concerning Morocco when it comes up.

The Asians and Arabs are proposing that France and Tunisia reopen under U. N. supervision negotiations for a compromise settlement that would lead to more self-rule and eventual independence.

Tawneys Mark

70-year-long working life encompassed three careers, says today he believes the baking business was the most satisfactory and profitable.

Was Baker At 16

He learned the baking trade as a youngster, starting in the business at 16. A Mr. Hoffman, who had come from Germany, had started a bakery on S. Washington St. and it was there that Mr. Tawney began his baking career. He was to spend 25 years in the business. After he had worked for Mr. Hoffman for about three years, the German immigrant died, and Mr. Tawney continued to work for Mrs. Hoffman as baker for another year.

About that time "Jake Stock's son," who operated a bakery at Emmitsburg, decided to give up the business and Mr. Tawney bought him out, moving to Emmitsburg. He had been in business there for a time when he and Mrs. Tawney married. The young couple began their long married life in Emmitsburg.

After about three years in Emmitsburg Mr. Tawney had an opportunity to purchase a bakery in Gettysburg operated by "a fellow named Newport" and he sold the Emmitsburg bakery and returned to Gettysburg. "We gave more bread for five cents than you can get for 15 cents today," Mr. Tawney recalls.

Turned to Farming

When he was 41, after 25 years in the bakery trade, he had an opportunity to become a farmer, a way of life that he had often considered. And so he and Mrs. Tawney went to farming, first on a farm near the present home of a grandson-in-law, Dr. Joseph Baker, then at Virginia Mills.

He spent a normal life-time of work in farming, engaging in agriculture for another 25 years. At 66 he decided to give up farming and move back to Gettysburg.

Not a man to retire when he was in good health and spirits, he got into another line of work. He joined the borough's highway force and for about 20 more years served as superintendent of streets of the town.

At last, about eight years ago, nearing 90, he retired. To keep himself busy during much of the year, he took up the management of a large garden at his Buford Ave. home.

Through With Gardening

Last summer, however, marked the end of his gardening days. Mr. Tawney says. He had to get someone else to do the digging and hoeing. Before that he could do his own hoeing, spraying and other garden work.

His principal difficulty is a weakness of one leg. He can walk about easily enough, and can go up and down stairs, but he cannot stand on the leg for any great length of time.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Tawney say their eyesight is falling somewhat. Mr. Tawney still enjoys reading books by using a large magnifying glass. But Mr. Tawney says the use of a magnifying glass makes her nervous and she confines her reading mostly to The Gettysburg Times.

Two of their five children, Mrs. Pretz and Mrs. Norman Wolf, Fairfield, survive. In addition there are five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren, all of whom were expected to be present with their wives or husbands at this afternoon's dinner party at St. James Church. The Mite Society is serving the meal.

After the dinner the family plans to go to the home of Dr. Baker for games, singing, the showing of motion pictures and a general family "get-together."

up models, to enhance appearance, and the bodies have improved sealing around the tailgate to make them more grain-tight than ever before. A new 1/2-ton pick-up with 116-inch wheelbase has been added to the new line. The box has high sides as have the 3/4 and 1-ton model pick-ups. The popular 1/2-ton pick-up with 108-inch wheelbase and with either high or low side body also is available.

Dual-primary type rear brakes on the 1 1/2, 2, and 2 1/2-ton models provide better braking action by insuring quick, safe stops with greatly reduced pedal pressure. This type brake has proved itself in severe service on heavy duty trucks. Similar improved braking and better balance between front and rear brakes is obtained on 1/2 through 2 1/2-ton models by use of straight bore brake cylinders on front and rear.

Dodge tinted glass is available in all glass areas for all models. New heaters with increased output are available for owners who need them in colder climates.
